INVITATION

Breakfast Seminar
Saturday May 12, 2012
led by Peter Heslam

“Business as an Agent of Social Justice”

Through its core operations, business has the potential to increase human well-being. Peter Heslam, the director of a Cambridge-based project that analyzes and catalyzes ethical entrepreneurship, will explore how business can help realize this potential. He will suggest that social capital is fundamental both to business success and to human development and he will outline how Christians are helping to build it. Based on the results of international research, he will present practical ways in which Christian faith integrates with enterprise to provide effective solutions to social problems.

An Introduction to Peter Heslam

Dr Peter Heslam is Director of Transforming Business, a research and development project at the University of Cambridge focused on entrepreneurial leadership and enterprise solutions to poverty. A prolific writer, speaker and researcher on these issues, he lectures to business and policy audiences around the world. He is also an advisor to journals and acts as a judge in international business competitions.

On Friday May 11, 2012 from 10:00 - 17:00 hours, ILE will be organizing a Study Day “Christian Perspectives on Social Justice in a Global Community”. For more information and registration, please go to the website: www.etf-ile.org/conferences.

You are welcome to attend both the Friday Study Day and the Saturday Breakfast Seminar. If you want to stay the night in Leuven, you will have to make your own arrangements, as we cannot yet facilitate an overnight stay.
